Solution:

Outlook provides limits on the size of files that user can send. This limit prevents user's computer from continually trying to upload very large attachments that exceed the limits of most Internet service providers.

This article describes the maximum limit in size and number of attachments in an email in Microsoft Outlook.

File Attachments Limit

This limit applies to the maximum number of file attachments allowed in an email message. There is still a limit on how many attachments are allowed in an email message even if the total size of all the file attachments does not exceed the message size limit. NOTE: The maximum number of files that can be attached to a single email is 250 attachments. The total size of all attachments to an email message should be less than the message size limit.

. File Attachment Size Limit

This limit applies to the maximum file size of a single attachment. Outlook's email client sets a maximum limit of 50 MB for every email attachment.

Note: Whether you have attached a single mail or several of them, they won't be delivered if they exceed the allowed attachment limit. Note: Users from Fresenius can send emails up to 50 MB but the external users can have message restriction size smaller than what Fresenius has. If this is the situation, the email might not reach the external user.
